

- Prototypes confirm our design!
Proof of a function via the hardware is one of the most important steps in development. We value our own production to verify devices and components. The further the sample phases progress, the more potential suppliers are involved in order to gain experience with the components. The fully developed product is mass-produced by our customers or partners.
- Consulting for manufacturing
- Suppliers support during the development phase
- Production of own prototypes for customer vehicles or systems
- Support of prototype phases A, B and C samples

